Associate Member Resource Guide & Website Information

PNSFA prints an extensive resource guide of our members for distribution every other year. The guide is distributed to over 3,000 specifiers of products using steel and steel fabrication. The intent of the guide is to give engineers, architects, construction managers, contractors and others a resource tool to use when designing and building jobs that have steel in them. It is a way to market our services as an industry, and for you as the PNSFA member to these decision makers. We want to make sure your company is included in this valuable directory. This information is also available on our website for the public.
